SURE EGGS ARE FRESH

When you buy eggs from outside sources, it is impossible to determine their freshness. The method of determining the freshness of eggs is known as "candling." This is done by holding the egg up to a light and looking at the contents. This method is not very accurate and is not recommended.

Another method employed by some who have a great number to test is to put the egg in a basin of water. If good, it will sink to the bottom; if bad, it will float. This method is also not very accurate and is not recommended.

TURKEYS EAT GRASSHOPPERS

Few's Take Bait of Their Food From Field Thence Devouring Millions of Bugs.

Turkeys, when farmed and prey upon, seem to escape hens. From the time the young are old enough to leave the nest, they are sent to the field. In June, until they are old enough to take the bulk of their food from the field, they are sent to the field. They are sent to the field to eat grasshoppers and other insects. This is a very good method of raising turkeys.

In the field, where wooded areas are still found, there is an important part in the life of the turkey. When the grasshoppers begin to fall,

The boy replied, "I'm not afraid. It's my saw." And "twist himself and tree he made a deeper flaw with the saw."

STRIKE LASTED SIX YEARS

Railroad Walkout That Began in 1914 Has Only Recently Been Officially Called Off.

Here is a railroad strike that ran through a world war; stood complacently by while almost the entire complexion of the eastern hemisphere underwent changes, and might still be running had not the strike committee suddenly thought of it, and decided it officially over. Another strange thing about the strike is that no one knew anything about it until it was over.

The strike began March 18, 1914, when 750 freight trainmen laid down their brake sticks in the various terminals of the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad, declaring for improved working conditions and protesting the reduction of train crew.

"It was an outlaw strike," said an official of the Pennsylvania railroad, "and was ended by the railroad brotherhoods two weeks after its inception." The strike might have been ended, but the strike committee never declared it officially off until at a meeting the other night.

Most of the men, it is understood, who went out, returned to work years ago.

Light of the Spade in History.

At Segontium was established the last Roman fort, at the terminus of the military road in North Wales. It is this Roman fort which British archeologists now propose to excavate if the sufficient sum of $10,000 can be raised to defray the expenses of the work.

There are few more obscure periods in the history of Wales than that of the Roman occupation, and it is not to be expected that much light will be thrown upon it by literary records. But the spade may give us what we seek in vain from the written or printed page, and excavation has already yielded valuable results from Caerwent, Gelligfer, Castell Collen and Caerwent. So far, however, nothing has been done in the northwest corner of the principality, that region of Gwynedd which occupies so large a space in the history of medieval Wales. The proposed excavation of Segontium may enable this gap to be filled with accurate if not extensive information.

Claims Honors of Columbus.

And now old sea-tanned, weather-soured John Scovia lumbers out of the grave he has occupied for some 400 years to start a Cook-Pearry controversy with the late Christopher Columbus. Through his present-day spokesman, Dr. Stefan Larsen, librarian of the University of Copenhagen, old John, a Dane-Norwegian navigator, claims he beat Columbus to America by 16 years. In a recent publication Doctor Larsen claims Scovia sailed by way of Greenland and Iceland and landed on the mainland of Labrador in 1476. Doctor Larsen's work has been translated by J. Christian Bay, head of the medical reference section of the John Crerar Library, Chicago, who says he believes Scovia's claim is authentically established.

My small cousin during the war picked up many phrases which were in common use. One day while I was combing her hair she dropped her hair ribbon, which she had been holding. ### TESTIMONY

No one in Barbourville who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Williamsburg man's twice told story. It is confirmed testimony that no resident of this locality can doubt.

J. W. Tuggle, Ex-Deputy sheriff, Main St., Williamsburg, Ky., says:—

"I had a dull aching pain in the small of my back and thru my loins, which gave me considerable trouble. The kidney secretions were unnatural and at times too frequent in passage and then again scanty. I concluded to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a box. I was not disappointed in the results. They quickly drove away the pains and aches and put my kidneys in good order."

Over three years later, Mr. Tuggle said:—"Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me of a bad case of kidney trouble a few years ago. I have had very little occasion to use a kidney medicine since. I am always glad to recommend Doan's."

An Airplane Dived in West Virginia

The airplane diving around in the air over this town Tuesday caused consternation among our gang of guineas. The best we could gather from our understanding of guinea parlance, they thought a big hawk was after them. Frolle, our bulldog, reared his head back and tried to jump over the trees in an effort to catch the monster. The best we could understand dog Latin he thought it was an angel coming in disguise and he knew he had no business lighting around a printing office. And as for myself, we really thought when he was flying so low and headed direct for our residence he was fixing to let us down a jug of good old yellow corn just in order to put us next to the system. At any rate, we all enjoyed the exhibition.—Huntington News.

Unfortunate Louvain.

The city of Louvain, Belgium, has been called the "Oxford of the Low Countries." It has been said that the city's chief product once was theology, and that it had a tremendous effect upon philosophy and religious thought.

The Louvain library once contained some 70,000 volumes and about 500 manuscripts, and was attached to the University of Louvain, founded in 1426. Before the world war the university had 2,000 students, but the enrollment exceeded 6,000 in the sixteenth century, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

PROFITS IN POULTRY FLOCK

Farmer Should Be Careful to Gather Eggs Regularly and Market Them Promptly.

The marketing of the product, particularly eggs, has an important bearing on the profits of the flock. Under most conditions it is impossible for the farmer to seek a special market for his eggs, but he should be very careful to see that the eggs are gathered regularly and frequently and promptly taken to market. Failure to do this is responsible for the spoiling of a great many eggs.

When the methods of buying are such that payment is made for good eggs only, a plan which is becoming more widespread and bids fair to be compulsory in most states, the farmer will suffer a decided money loss if he does not make it his business to see that all the eggs delivered are fresh and marketable at full value.

One of the greatest causes of spoiled eggs during the hot summer season is the development of chick embryos in fertile eggs, poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture say. This loss is preventable simply by producing infertile eggs. All that is needed to accomplish this is to separate the male birds from the females as soon as the breeding season is over. All the eggs sold will then be infertile and incapable of embryo development.
